22 Pa. Code Chapter 4. Academic Standards And Assessment

A robot is a machine—especially one programmable by a computer— capable of carrying out a complex series of actions automatically. Robots can be guided by an external control device or the control may be embedded within. Robots may be constructed on the lines of human form, but most robots are machines designed to perform a task with no regard to their aesthetics.

These are "guided waves"—the subject of this chapter. We begin by working out the general theory of the transmission line. The ordinary power transmission line that runs from tower to tower over the countryside radiates away some of its power, but the power frequencies (50–60 cycles/sec) are so low that this loss is not serious.
