(A home remedy is a treatment to cure a disease or ailment that employs certain spices, vegetables, or other common items. Home remedies have become increasingly popular as the expense and hassle of conventional medicine continues to rise. Today herbs are catching a lot of attention due to their very nature of cure: simple, no side effects, no chemicals, inexpensive, plus the ability of being able to cure yourself. Traditionally, in India, plants with medicinal value were used effectively as self help remedies for managing common ailments, such as to boost your child's immune system, preventing avoiding hair loss, treating persistent acne or dandruff, treating aches, pains or cuts and burns. This book describes the ailments and prescribes various medications based on readily available products. ) #v&spublishers

"Me make you velly nice apple tart. Miss Betty." The Chinese cook flourished his rolling pin with one hand and swung his apron viciously with the other as he held open the screen door and swept out some imaginary flies. Lee Chang, cook for the bunk house in the oil fields, could do several things at one time, as he had frequently proved. The girl, who was watching a wiry little bay horse contentedly crop grass that grew in straggling whisps about the fence posts, looked up and showed an even row of white teeth as she smiled. "I don't think we're going to stay for dinner to-day," she said half regretfully. "I know your apple tarts, Lee Chang—they are delicious." The fat Chinaman closed the screen door and went on with his pastry making. From time to time, as he passed from the table to the oven, he glanced out. Betty Gordon still stood watching the horse.

Sivkishen Ji ensured that the Fascinating Kingdom of Shiva Series-4 come to life with the main character Syamala, became Sthapati Sivani, the chief Sevita of Kanakachala Temple. She became an authority on Vedas, and Agamas, since learned all sciences from Yoginis, Yakshini, Matrikas and the guardians of Sri Chakra. She was training 1404 Kanya Sevita to ensure their devotion to the service of Kanakachala Temple. The story of goddess Bhagavathy changed the mindset of Asura Bana and turned him as her one of the best devotees. Asura Bana was responsible starting the development of temples of Kanya Kumari in all the lower worlds. These temples built the Vedic way, in different size, shape, and locations. The author detailed fascinatingly on performing rituals in worship of mother goddess with wonderful devotion. He gave the Vedic Scientific facts on the worship, connected temple services of Puja rituals and items and panchagavya, mixture of five cow products. When used in Ayurvedic medicine, it is cowpathy. The three direct constituents are cow dung, urine, and milk; the two derived products are curd and ghee. He dealt on the science of ornaments corresponding to different 'pressure points' on the body. Each part of the human body is divided into two parts - the Upper and Lower level. In the lower part, below naval, they used all silver made items, wherein in the upper portion they used Gold made ornaments. By adoring, the ornaments made by good metals one is protected from the negative energies. Silver ornaments, when decked below the naval, will protect the harmful germs. This is an essential knowledge that gets unfold the divine sciences of Metals, Gems, Acupressure, Human Anatomy (structure) and physiology (function). The author detailed on the necessity of virgin worship or Kanya Puja. This is to recognize the feminine power vested in the girl child and to give them as much importance in the social fabric. This based on the Taittiriya Samhita of Krishna Yajur Veda. This also explains on worshipping married women as detailed in the Lalitha Sahasranama Verses 177 and 178 He detailed how the numerous pillars, each of which includes separate columns that sound musical notes when struck with a finger. Different columns in a pillar produce sounds of different frequencies. Moreover, several multi-columned pillars make sounds similar to specific Indian musical instruments such as the ghanta (bell), mridanga (percussion), or veena (strings). The physicists applied three techniques to learn about the structure of the columns and analyzed recordings of generated sound. The metallography with the typical microstructures has both low-frequency ultrasound and impact-echo testing revealed all the columns to be solid shafts. From those studies and spectral analyses, the researchers conclude that the pillars' sounds arise from the flexural mode of vibrations. He also dealt with the process of performing Agnihotra regarded as a process of purification of the atmosphere. The pure atmosphere helps to maintain the purity of character. This explains the significance of the fragrant flowers, herbs, and dried roots of medicinal plants. He detailed on the 'Divine Dance' on three elements of Nritta, Nirtya, and Natya as dealt in the Lalitha Sahasranama, Devi Bhagavat Purana, and Devi Gita. This demonstrates performing Mahisasuramardini in the prominent dance styles of Bharatanatyam, Kathak, Kathakali, and Kuchipudi to give a glimpse of Natya Sastra performance. The reader will enjoy reading this descriptive chapter on the performers' movements of the face, the eyebrows, the eyeballs, the cheeks, the nose, and the chin minutely worked out and various emotions registered in a flash. It predominantly includes the leg, hip, body and arm movements complemented by Hasta Mudra for expressions. The gestural language is a grammatically complete language of hand symbols equivalent to speech especially eyes and mouth, body expression

Renaissance Theory presents an animated conversation among art historians about the optimal ways of conceptualizing Renaissance art, and the links between Renaissance art and contemporary art and theory. This is the first discussion of its kind, involving not only questions within Renaissance scholarship, but issues of concern to art historians and critics in all fields. Organized as a virtual roundtable discussion, the contributors discuss rifts and disagreements about how to understand the Renaissance and debate the principal texts and authors of the last thirty years who have sought to reconceptualize the period. They then turn to the issue of the relation between modern art and the Renaissance: Why do modern art historians and critics so seldom refer to the Renaissance? Is the Renaissance our indispensable heritage, or are we cut off from it by the revolution of modernism? The volume includes an introduction by Rebecca Zorach and two final, synoptic essays, as well as contributions from some of the most prominent thinkers on Renaissance art including Stephen Campbell, Michael Cole, Frederika Jakobs, Claire Farago, and Matt Kavalier.

Chia Ann Siang was once one of Singapore's wealthiest landowners and merchants. His name lives on today in Ann Siang Hill in Chinatown, but little else is known about him, particularly his private life. This illuminating new book paints the most detailed portrait to date of his life and times in colonial Singapore and traces the changing fortunes of the Chia clan through the years. Born in Malacca in 1834, Chia joined Boustead and Co., an English trading company in Singapore, as a storekeeper at the age of 16. In just six years, he was made Chief Storekeeper, and was able to buy himself a house at 58 Telok Ayer Street (and another one on Amoy Street for good measure). An astute property investor, Chia continued to acquire much real estate in the course of his life; by 1919, he owned more than 70 houses in Chinatown. In 1873, he purchased a large piece of land from John Gemmill, which soon became known officially as Ann Siang Hill. Chia Ann Siang died in 1892, leaving a fortune that supported two generations and educated a third. This book looks at the disparate fortunes of his descendants, including a son he disinherited for marrying against his wishes, and a daughter whose marriage brought two wealthy families together. Far more than a biography, this book tells the fascinating story of more than seven generations of Straits Chinese, from Chia's grandfather's emigration from Fujian to Malacca in 1774, right up to the present day.
